Teacher’s notes

This pack of documents and transcripts will allow you to prepare your students for the videoconference / virtual classroom session. It is vital that all students complete the preparatory work beforehand, so that they are fully prepared for the session.

Background information

Based on the original War Office files of Private Henry Fairhurst, this actor led workshop will give students an opportunity to examine a soldier’s life in the trenches during the Great War.

Teacher preparation

The content of the workshop will consist entirely of Henry talking about his experiences in the trenches, prompted and led by students’ questions. Students should be seen clearly on screen and have good access to a microphone.

During the videoconference workshop, students will be encouraged to ask Henry questions about any aspect of his life during active service. They will be able to draw on Henry’s experiences and examine whether their conclusions about life in the trenches support or contradict those of Henry.

To prepare the students for the session students should read the attached WO 363/ F 22 documents from Henry’s original file. These will give the students the opportunity to discover a little bit about Henry. These sources should be studied prior to using documents from the Education website’s online exhibition on the Great War.

The link below will take you to the Education online resource ‘Great War 1914-1918’: nationalarchives.gov.uk/education/greatwar/

Please note that the ‘Great War 1914-1918’ resource has been archived as the interactive parts no longer work. You can still use the rest of it for information, tasks or research.

Teacher's notes

Different groups of students should study a particular case or theme and research it in order to create their questions. Here are some suggestions to help get students started:

Gallery 1: The Great War: conflict and controversy

Case Study 1: Changing views on the Great War

Source 1: Mother's Poem, 1918¹

- Ask Henry what his family think about him joining up. What does his mother think? Does he miss his family and home?
- What job did he do before he joined up?

Gallery 2: Why did Britain go to war in 1914?

Case Study 3: Did public opinion drag Britain into war?

Source 2: Diary of a factory worker²

Source 5: Recruitment Poster³

- Question Henry on his reasons for joining up.
- What was the recruitment process like?
- Does he think that joining up was the right thing to do?
- How have his experiences in the trenches influenced his opinion of the war?

Gallery 3: The Trench Experience

Teacher's notes

Case Study 1: Weapons and Warfare

Source 9: British Soldier in full kit¹

- Ask Henry to describe the different parts of his kit and explain what each item is used for.
- How does it feel to carry all this kit?
- How does he keep it clean and in good working order?
- What does he think about weapons and warfare?

Case Study 2: The daily grind

Source 1: Film of soldiers digging trenches²

- What duties does Henry have to carry out in the trenches each day?
- What is a “typical” day like?
- What does he do if he gets time off?

Source 4: Postcard sent home³

- Does Henry write letters home to his family? What does he write about?

Source 7: Mealtime in the trenches⁴

- Ask Henry about what he is given to eat and drink every day. How did this compare to what he usually ate and drank back at home?
- Does he get any extra treats from home? Are there ways he can earn extra rations?

Teacher's notes

Gallery 4: Lions led by donkeys

Case Study 3: The Somme, 1916

Source 7: British film, 'The Battle of the Somme'¹

- Ask Henry about his experiences of going over the top. How does he prepare for it? What emotions does he have as he goes over?
- What are his relationships like with his battalion friends at this time?
- What is his opinion of the generals? Is he an optimist or a pessimist?

Additional Preparation (optional)

Organise the students into their groups to write a letter to Henry explaining their views on the war based on their research. They can also write down the questions they wish to ask him.

During the videoconference, Henry can refer to these letters and questions. He can address his comments to the group concerned, also inviting additional questions from that group.

If you would like to do this please send your letters to the Education Service, National Archives, Ruskin Avenue, Kew, Surrey, TW9 4DU at least two weeks before your workshop and provide us with a covering sheet with your name, school, and the date and time of your workshop.

Please retain a copy of your letters and questions for students to refer to during the session.

Why do our hyperlinks come with footnotes?

Our resources are designed to be printed and used in classrooms, which means hyperlinks aren’t always accessible digitally. We include the full link at the bottom of the page so that you can type in the address without distracting from the main text of the lesson materials.

Did you know?

The National Archives Education Service also offers free workshops onsite in Kew and online in your classroom.

Our Onsite Workshops are available for free here at The National Archives and allow students to experience genuine original documents reflecting over 1000 years of history. From Elizabeth I’s signature to the telegrams of the sinking Titanic, students love the wow-factor of being able to see real history on the desk in front of them.

Our Online Workshops allow our Education Officers to teach through your projector, leading discussions and guiding students through activities based around original documents. All you need is a computer with a projector, webcam and microphone. We’ll arrange a test call before your session to check the tech is working.
